

Dominic and his team have undertaken a number of jobs for us over the years, most recently a kitchen refurbishment.

This involved completely gutting the current kitchen and there were some structural considerations here, which Dom and his team were able to advise on and seek solutions to. These involved removal of a chimney breast (including fitting two steels in order to support the floor above), removal of a bay window in order to rebuild flush, and also removal of part of a wall to accommodate the addition of bi-fold doors.

In addition, the kitchen floor was removed and re-laid with under-floor heating, the plumbing was redirected to another part of the room, (as was the gas supply) and completely new electrical wiring was installed throughout.

During the course of the refurbishment it was also apparent that our walls were not straight enough for the kitchen to be installed and Dominic arranged for them to be re-plastered to ensure that the finished kitchen looked perfect. Knowing that we had Dom and his team on board to fit the kitchen for us as well, meant that we could choose a “supply only” company, which gave us better options.

Dom also managed to hand-build a cupboard to house our boiler out of the same facia that the kitchen is made from, which just fits so well, and the boiler now disappears into the room. Fantastic!

The finished job was immaculate and Dom and his team were organised and efficient in their work, as ever.

Dominic is always helpful and a pleasure to have around. His workmanship is always very good and he is more than willing to advise on both building work, as well as help with decisions on interior decoration - and so far he's not made any recommendations that we haven't taken on board.

We have a few other jobs that we are currently considering, but one thing we are certain of, is that we will only be using Dom and his team to do the work for us.
